Lowville Academy 1808-1958

"There are times in which it is peculiarly proper to pause in the journey of life and cast a retrospective glance upon our path; to review the incidents which have marked our course—the influences which have favored or retarded our progress, and the lessons which experience has taught us." Thus began a speech one hundred years ago by Franklin B. Hough. This speech was given on the occasion of the completion of the first half century of Lowville Academy. Now, as the Academy marks its 150th year, let us "cast a retrospective glance" upon its past.

In 1805-06 a building for religious worship, public meetings and also for an academy was erected where the present Presbyterian church is located. At the time an application was made for a charter for the academy. The charter was granted March 21, 1808. The Reverend Issac Clinton became the first principal May 15, 1808 at an annual salary of two hundred dollars. He remained in charge for ten years.

To give a distinct character to Lowville Academy, a preliminary examination of students was required. There were no academies in Jefferson, St. Lawrence or Franklin counties and the excellent reputation of Lowville Academy drew students from these counties.

In 1818, Stephen W. Taylor, a graduate of Hamilton, became principal. He held this position for six years, during which time additions were made to the buildings to accommodate more students. On April 10, 1818, the school managed to secure financial aid from the state.

The next big change came in 1824 when Mr. Taylor was elected principal for twenty years and a contract for a new building was given. The plan for this new building, drawn up by an architect from Albany under the direction of Mr. Taylor, was so original and supposed to contain so many advantages that a patent was obtained in April, 1825. In this new building, the students were separated from each other by partitions, with the teacher's desk in the center of the room so that he could supervise each pupil. Because this building proved faulty, the reputation of the academy lessened.

For this reason, in 1835, instruction was halted to raze the building and construct a new one. Built with $2,000 loaned by the state, the brick edifice contained an assembly room, two study rooms and private recitation rooms.

The first term began on September 1, 1836, with "the strictest attention being given to the morals and correct deportment of the members of the seminary." The students boarded with local families.

In 1840 a chemistry lab was set up in the basement of the structure. The next year the school was made to accommodate twenty more pupils.

In 1860 construction began again. This time two wings were added.

A local resident, Mrs. Hannah Bostwick, willed that her home be remodeled to accommodate a girls' department and principal's room. Because of separation of classes and poor administration, the plan wasn't successful.

In general, the Academy was a good institution. The subjects were good for those preparing for college. There was a fine library. An inspection group from the Board of Regents offered very few criticisms.

The buildings were completely renovated in 1892 and 1893. The improvements included electric lights and heating system. New apparatus and furniture were installed at a total cost of $11,000. A boarding house for thirty students was provided.

August 25, 1905 marked a change of control at the Academy. It became Union Free School, District Number Two of Lowville, New York. Trustees conducted and maintained the institution. The Board of Education approved and supervised instructors.

Pupils of academic grades in the district were given instruction without cost. Non-resident students entitled by law to attend school were likewise educated without charge. Those students not entitled to free education were charged a specified tuition rate.

By 1920 the buildings were too small and old to be used for school purposes. On March 22, 1922 the state legislature allowed the Academy to apply to the Supreme Court to determine what should be done concerning the buildings.

On February 19, 1924 the voters of the district authorized the construction of a new building. Two lots were purchased in 1926. The Board of Trustees then conveyed the property to the Board of Education, thus ending a 116 years old institution of private learning.

On February 6, 1926 a large brick building was dedicated. It was three stories high, with measurements of 116 feet by 196 feet and accommodations for one thousand pupils.

During the 1950's two important developments were made at our school. The first, centralization, took place in 1952. In September Lowville Free Academy became known as Lowville Academy and Central School. Soon it was evident that the school was overcrowded. On December 17, 1954 the taxpayers voted for the construction of an addition at the cost of $1,944,000. Later, $99,800 was provided for equipment, drive-ways and landscaping.

The following fall, October 17, 1955, ground was broken for a new building. The structure provided rooms for grades kindergarten through six. A gymnasium with dimensions of 100' x 100' was added. A swimming pool, one of the few in northern New York, was built. An enlarged homemaking area and shop area were provided. Two new spacious cafeterias with a modern kitchen were added. In addition the old building was renovated, providing new offices for the administration. The auditorium had a complete face-lifting. The school system, including the country schools still in operation, now has a capacity for 2,100 students.

In June of this memorable year, the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Academy, ninety-seven of us will be graduated. May we take our place among the many students who have gone before us, upholding the honor and integrity of this lasting Academy.

DEDICATION

The members of the class of 1958 thank you, MRS. PORTER, for your efforts on behalf of our class. Your constant interest in our success, your unselfish guidance throughout our four years of high school have been appreciated. We dedicate the 1958 edition of the Lowacadian to you.

MR. BRENNEN, we wish to express our sincere appreciation to you, not only for the superior athletic groups which you have worked so hard to develop and maintain, but more important for the sense of sportsmanship which you have instilled in our athletes. To you, our class advisor and coach, we also dedicate the 1958 Lowacadian.

Administration

Rev. Isaac Clinton of Southwick, Massachusetts was principal and Robert McDowell, a surveyor in this vicinity and a resident of St. Lawrence County, was assistant teacher. The trustees ruled that two of their number should in rotation visit the academy once each week under a penalty of one dollar for each neglect.

1958—

We have a district principal, a high school principal, an elementary principal, an administrative assistant, a guidance director, two librarians, two nurses, a dental hygienist in addition to forty-seven elementary teachers and forty high school teachers. Our board of education has nine members who hold regular meetings the second Monday evening of each month.

MR. LEON A. DAVIS
District Principal

Lowville Academy and Central School
Office of District Principal
Lowville, N. Y.

This year as seniors you are looking forward to the completion of your secondary school career. It is fitting that you pause to consider the privileges that have been yours in attending a school so richly endowed with a glorious past. For one hundred and fifty years Lowville Academy has played a vital role in the life of this community. Many people have assisted in building this Academy from its beginning to its present status as a Central School. We should never forget the contributions of time, effort and money that these friends have made. It is up to you and all future graduating classes to perpetuate these traditions so that Lowville Academy and Central School will continue to stand the test of time for many more generations.

Leon A. Davis

Lowville, N. Y.

From 1808 to 1958 three major changes in organization have taken place in our school—from the old Academy to the Union Free School, and then to the Central School. During the past 150 years our school has gone through five great wars and severe depressions. Despite these transitions and the increased scope of the curriculum, Lowville Academy has maintained a high place in the field of secondary education in New York State.

In this atomic age, we must be ever mindful of the great tradition which is ours, and continue to uphold the honor of Lowville Academy and Central School.

- 1808— We believe that students of Lowville Academy would have been amazed at the idea of having all the extra-curricular activities that we have.
- 1958— The following pages show that much of our time outside classes is spent in athletics, music, school publications and clubs such as F.H.A., F.F.A., F.B.L.A., library club, French club, projector operators, National Honor Society and student council.

Student Councils Help

This organization, in charge of improving law and order at L.A.C.S., works for the best interests of the students. This year it was presided over by David Boutwell. John Duffy was vice-president and Jeanne Wilcox secretary-treasurer. Mr. Robert B. Mays is their advisor.

Always increasing their many and varied activities, they have assumed the task of providing recorded music in the gymnasium for the noon-hour program. Moreover, they have initiated a new assembly program, under which all assemblies are given by one of the many classes or activity groups in L.A.C.S.

At the beginning of the second semester, they inaugurated a plan for improving student conduct, both while school is in session and at school-sponsored activities. This group is the practical application of democracy in our school.

Membership in the National Honor Society is the height of scholastic achievement and recognition of school service at L.A.C.S. Members are chosen on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership and service. Fifteen per cent of a graduating class are chosen. Five per cent are selected in the junior year and the results are announced at Commencement. The remaining ten per cent are selected in the senior year. Last June, Peg Smith, Kathleen Johnson, Kathleen O'Connor, Bill Bohall and Howard Higby were chosen. In the snaps above are members selling "The Torch", their literary magazine, which is published three times during the school year.

The advisors are Mrs. Genevieve Lawrence and Mr. Russell Zeller.

Another year passed and French Club was still going strong. Once a month strange sounds were heard such as, "La présidente, Kathy Johnson, a ouvert la séance," and la secrétaire, Sandra Allen, a lu le procès-verbal."

The above translated simply means that Kathy Johnson opened the meeting and Sandra Allen, the secretary, read the minutes. In case the president was unable to attend the meeting, vice-president Janet Jackson took over. Always present to help was Mrs. Kenneth E. Ford, the advisor.

French Club consisted of students who had taken one year of French. The meetings were conducted in French and most of the conversation was in French. These meetings acquainted the members with the French language, culture, history, and customs. Entertainment was of a varied and interesting nature. Members participated in French games, skits, song fests and listened to records. Following the meetings, which were held at members' homes, refreshments were served.

Seated: Janet Jackson, vice-president; Kathleen Johnson, president; Sandy Allen, secretary. Standing: Jackie Prashaw, hospitality; Delores Leviker, program chairman.

This year, the Noon Whistle has been a mimeo-graphed paper. Once a month an account of high school activities, sports, accomplishments and gossip has been made available to our students and faculty for five cents. These papers have been from four to ten pages long. Decorations and cartoons made each page more interesting.

The editors, Kathy Johnson and Peggy Smith have led our staff in producing the papers. These busy students have devoted many hours during and after school to writing, stenciling, designing, arranging and headlining the articles. The advisors, Mr. Tucker and Mr. Drummond, have acted as overseers of this new adventure in journalism.

The library is one of the most beautiful rooms in the new school. Located between the first and second floors—over the old gymnasium, it is easily accessible to the junior and senior high schools, yet it is removed from the noise and disturbance of the traffic in the corridors. The library is a spacious 64' by 42' room, six times the size of the old library, with full-length eastern exposure. Shelves of light birch against soft dusty rose walls with soundproof ceiling and both fluorescent and indirect lighting, give the room an atmosphere of study throughout. The light birch furniture of both round and rectangular study tables and chairs combines beauty and grace with functional efficiency and sturdy construction. A glass exhibit case for rare books and records and the magazine rack are built for rare books as part of the shelving. In one end of the room, divided by counter height shelving, is a special area devoted to reading, with a table and four red upholstered chairs.

In addition to the main reading room, which will easily seat sixty pupils, there is an adjoining room where periodicals and a collection of old books are kept. This room has been soundproofed for use as a conference room and also may be used as a listening room. There is a large rectangular conference table surrounded by side chairs with red upholstered backs. The walls are melon green, and blend with the grain of the light birch woodwork and furniture. Also adjoining the library is a workroom containing shelves, cupboards for storing supplies, a linoleum-topped work space, and sink. Other modern equipment includes a work table and chairs, two metal vertical files for library material and a librarian's desk. The walls are melon green, the same as the conference room. A large glass window allows for supervision of the reading room from this area. At each entrance to the library are two large bulletin boards for notices and displays.

This year a library club has been formed, under the supervision of our librarian, Miss Glenn, consisting of about thirty high school girls who voluntarily devote two or three periods a week to lend service in the operation of the library.

Here indeed is an inviting library, easily accessible, with plenty of space and ideal working conditions for all students.

F.H.A. Holds Meetings Twice a Month

The Future Homemakers of America is a club composed of girls interested in homemaking. Meetings were held in the homemaking rooms twice a month — one after school one in the evening. At the October meeting, the following officers were installed by Miss Charlotte Roy, past-president: Sheila Fitzgerald, president; Anna Margie Moshier, vice-president; Joan Bush, secretary; Ruby Widrick, treasurer; Susan Smith, song leader; Beatrice Benware, publicity; Joyce Campany, membership chairman; Janet Davis, board chairman; Phyllis Burke and Joan Murphy, co-chairmen of ways and means. The advisors were Miss Olive Kilpatrick and Mrs. Veronica Haight. The chapter mothers were Mrs. Ambrose Bush and Mrs. Winnie Smith.

From the eight purposes which the F.H.A. promotes nationally, the local group chose two for this year:

the sponsoring of wholesome recreation and the joys and satisfactions of homemaking. At one meeting our mothers were guests and the program consisted of a panel discussion by mothers and girls on the joys and satisfactions of homemaking.

We went to the fall rally at West Leyden where our part in the program was to demonstrate how to plan a year's program of work. In the spring, the rally was held in Canton.

At one meeting Mr. Keen spoke to us on vocations open to homemaking students. A local hairdresser demonstrated good grooming and hair styling at another meeting. In the spring the annual fashion show was held.

Once a month we served refreshments to the junior-senior high school faculty before their regular meeting.

In September, the Lowville chapter of the Future Farmers of America revised their yearly program for the activity contest and adopted a system so that the members who do extra work are able to receive credit for it. At the end of the year the boy who has achieved the greatest number of points receives an award.

Last fall, thirty-four F.F.A. members, sponsored by the Lowville Farmers' Cooperative and the G.L.F., took two hundred five soil samples on fifty-eight different farms.

A parent and son banquet was held in April, the first of its kind in several years.

During the past year, Dick Bush received the Empire Farmer Award, which is the second highest award given in F.F.A. Richard Kaban won the first prize at the Lewis County Fair in the 4-H tractor driving contest and second at the State Fair.

The Lowville F.F.A. judging team took top honors in the dairy judging contest at the Lewis County Fair. Richard Kaban and Wayne Woodard were in a group representing Lewis County in dairy judging at the 1957 State Fair.

Planning for a crop demonstration to be held this summer is one of the final projects of this school year.

Projector Operators

Life would be so dull without the visual aids department and the smiling faces of the thirty-five projector operators. These senior high fellows have willingly given up their free time to learn the handling of movie projectors and electronic equipment such as the tape recorder.

Under the supervision of Mr. Campbell, these boys have conscientiously studied the "twists and turns" of these various mechanical devices so they can be of assistance to any teacher any period of the day. These boys are not amateurs, as each one has taken and passed a written test. They can set up a movie projector in one minute and also make minor repairs. Since this is strictly a service organization, a great deal of credit and thanks is due them from both teachers and students for their cooperation and dependability.

SENIOR FORMAL

DECEMBER 27, 1957

Christmas decorations at our formal.

The cafeteria proved an ideal spot for our Christmas fun.

Our new cafeteria — with the tables removed — was an ideal place for the annual Christmas formal which was held December 27, 1957 from nine o'clock until one. The above picture gives an idea of the floor space available for dancing. Snow-covered trees and wishes and wishes for a Happy New Year created the mood for dancing to the music of the Mel-Tones.

About forty couples danced to the music of the Mel-Tones.

Band Practices in

Mr. Luther B. Askin, director; Sharon Osterhaut, librarian; Bill Bohall, vice-president; Evelyn Smithling, treasurer; Bob Ross, president; Diane Virkler, secretary.

After Lowville Academy had been in existence one hundred and twenty years, one of its better known organizations came into being. This was the band; it was composed of the director, Mr. Luther Askin, and fifteen male members. Through the hard work and leadership of Mr. Askin, the band has grown until now approximately sixty students constitute the band and an assistant director, Mr. Albert Williams, has been added.

The activities of the band are many, but in order to accomplish them, they must practice. Every day these sixty members can be seen going to their new soundproof room on the south side of the first floor of the building to practice during fifth period.

Radley with her clarinet, Peggy Smith with her French horn and Jerry Hurd with his trumpet participated in the North Country Zone Festival. On several occasions these instrumentalists went to Watertown to practice, along with others from the North Country, under the direction of Mr. Walter A. Nine-sling. Then, as a grand finale a concert was given in Watertown November 26, 1957 showing the accomplishments of these people.

As they have done for several years, the band attended the Spring Festival and did an excellent job.

This colorful group also marched in the Halloween and the Memorial Day parade. In the spring they also went to Kingston, Canada for the Military Band Tattoo.

CHORUS

The chorus of one hundred members under the direction of Mrs. Theodore Smith had their own room for the first time. From this first floor dusky blue room on the south side can be heard strains of music from exercises to Christmas carols.

Because of "standing room only" in the auditorium we were unable to give a Christmas concert even though we had worked on various arrangements for it. We were well rewarded later, however, with a lovely spring concert.

In May the chorus attended the Spring Festival in Potsdam, singing grade 4 and 5 music.

This year six of our chorus members went to the County Chorus of the North Central Zone under the direction of Dr. Helen M. Hosmer. These six students, Cynthia Thisse, Delores Leviker, Walter Reed, Richard Bush, Dave Boutwell, and Clifford Cook, went to Watertown every Monday night for several weeks to practice. On November 26, 1957, they went to Watertown, practiced all day, and gave a tremendous concert that night with approximately 100 representatives from various schools in this North Central Zone.

New Athletic Group is Organized

The main aim of our new athletic association, which was formed this year, is to promote school spirit and to support the various divisions of our athletic department.

Season tickets were sold which admitted the purchasers to all home athletic contests. The association published printed schedules and gave one of them to each student.

Officers chosen by a vote of the student body to head the Lowville athletic association were Kathy Johnson, president; John Steinbrenner, vice-president; Carolyn Sweredoski, treasurer, Judy Garnham, secretary. Members of the G.A.A., L Club, cheerleaders, and one representative from each grade from eight through twelve made up the steering committee. Coach Watkins is the advisor.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Our new gymnasium which was dedicated January 28, 1958 and our new swimming pool which was used January 21, 1958 for the first time have made our G.A.A. activities more interesting.

We started our activities in the fall with archery on the front lawn. A large number of girls then participated in bowling which was held at the Elks and the Masonic bowling alleys.

Basketball intramurals started in January. This was followed by volleyball, softball and tennis in the spring.

Underclassmen

- 1808— Thirty-seven pupils were enrolled. Since there was no academy in Jefferson, St. Lawrence or Franklin Counties, many students came from there and also from distant parts.
- 1958— The enrollment in the whole school from kindergarten through senior high is over eighteen hundred pupils. These include over one thousand pupils who are brought in by twenty busses covering eight hundred vehicle miles each day.

This has been quite a year for us. When we first entered our "green year", we did not realize how much hard work, patience and time was needed.

We entered our first year in high school with vigor and anticipation. We were the first freshman class to be in the renovated school. We were so proud of our new desks. Soon we felt a part of high school.

We started our year with the election of officers. We elected Ann Lormore as our president and Theresa Hebdon as our vice-president. Then, not wanting to leave the boys out of our political program and because of their ability, we chose John Delles as our secretary and Harry O'Connor as our treasurer. We asked Mr. Kibling and Mr. Campbell to be our advisors.

With the cooperation of our advisors, officers and the entire class, we accomplished much. We held a successful record hop and we sponsored the customary Frosh-Junior after the juniors welcomed us into high school with the Junior-Frosh.

And now, as we come to the close of the first phase of our history, we would like to thank our advisors, the faculty and the upperclassmen for helping us get started in high school.

SOPHOMORES

Make way for the Sophomores! A feeling of accomplishment was felt as we walked through the halls on September 9, 1957. We had finished our first year. We were beginning our second year and were already looking forward to becoming juniors. As we look back on our freshman year, we realize how green and inexperienced we were, but we had started the ball rolling with the election of class officers. Bobby Stevens was our choice for president with Pat McPhilly acting as vice-president. Tommy Glenn was elected as treasurer and Jim Ingersoll as secretary. Our one and only, but well appreciated advisor, was Mr. Everett Jones. Our first venture into the field of money-making was a successful spaghetti supper held in February.

As our sophomore year quickly descended on us, we were kept busy with "Hammurabi" and his laws, and the microscopic beings we encountered in biology. In addition to having different subjects and teachers, we were given new homerooms. We, all five homerooms of us, had our own little sanctum set aside on third floor. It was wonderful! We were all together and the atmosphere that was felt when one approached a group of our lockers was strictly "Sophomorish."

We had another spaghetti supper in February. The all-important Sophomore Sweetheart Ball and various other activities kept us busy. Yet, we found time to elect new class officers. With Ray Walsh as president and Bobby Stevens as vice-president, we knew that a good year was in the making. Dick Higby was elected secretary-treasurer and we added Mr. Francis Blaisdell as an advisor. But amidst the exciting and vigorous activities, tragedy came our way in the form of the death of our beloved classmate and a promising athlete, Tom Andre. The loss was felt deeply by the entire student body and faculty. He was also missed on baseball and basketball squads.

Aside from this loss, our Sophomore year was full of pep and ambition, so you see why you had better watch out because "Here come the Sophomores!"

JUNIORS

Having moved up another notch in our high school life, we turned our attention to the intricacies of chemistry and American history. We somehow found time to choose Duncan Farney, Mary Meda, Elizabeth Mattis and Judy Garnham to direct the affairs of our class. Needing additional advisors, we selected Mrs. Robert Nortz and Mr. Harry Stahl, in addition to our advisor from last year, Mr. Russell Shurtleff. The problem of money being foremost in our minds, we set out to add to our treasury. Several record hops did the trick and helped the income column.

Early in 1958, we chose an executive committee to facilitate the management of class affairs. Picking up speed in February, we held a paper drive and the traditional Junior-Frosh dance.

In March we embarked on our maiden voyage in dramatics, presenting our junior play, Time Out for Ginger, under the direction of C. J. Shapland. Our first big dance, the Junior Prom, was held during Easter vacation.

As we look back on the past year, we wonder where the days have gone. Reviewing our activities, we know that it was time well spent. We are looking forward to our senior year in Lowville Academy and Central School because our junior year has been a happy one.

Keeping the good work as far as Duncan Farney

Seniors

1808

Since this was the first term of Lowville Academy, the pupils hadn't had twelve years to get acquainted and to look forward to their senior year as we have done. They had no scholarship examinations, no senior formal, no senior trip!

1958

For three and a half years of our high school life, we jostled our way through the growing pains of our school. The first half of our senior year we held our class meetings in the cafeteria and our gym classes shared the old gym with two other classes simultaneously. We had no assemblies and our senior play was postponed until March.

We took our scholarship examinations in January and immediately the world looked brighter. The new pool was opened January 21, 1958. The next week the auditorium was transformed from an empty space to a beautiful room with its red upholstered seats and new stage equipment. Our senior play cast then moved in and started rehearsals. Next came our senior trip to New York. That is what we were planning in the picture above. Then came final exams and graduation. It was great being a senior in Lowville Academy and Central School in 1958!

SENIOR HISTORY

One hundred and fifty years ago, in 1808, the first class in Lowville Academy assembled. This year, in 1958, the one hundred fiftieth class is being graduated from high school. Proud to have this distinguished honor, we look back over the previous four years with pride, humility and satisfaction.

During the first year of our journey to the top, we chose as our leader Ray Rhubart. His assistants were Bill Jackson, vice-president; Jane Western, secretary and Carolyn Wilcox as our treasurer. Under the guidance of our advisors Mrs. Hazel Porter, Mrs. Dorothy McCue and Mr. Jack Brennen, we started our first year in L.A.C.S. with great hope and, having been instilled with school spirit, became a part of all the extra-curricular activities.

For our second year we chose the same leaders. We continued raising the necessary funds for our New York trip with bake sales, football programs and several successful dances.

In our junior year we chose the following officers: president — Ray Rhubart, vice-president — Steve Zubrzycki, secretary — Evelyn Smithling, and treasurer William Bohall. We also chose a new advisor,

Mrs. Russum, to replace Mrs. McCue. This year proved fruitful; several successful sales campaigns, the play, "Professor, How Could You!" and the Junior Prom were some of our activities. We were well on our way toward the summit of our climb upward. We have finally made it, the top in L.A.C.S., the place which seemed so far away four years ago. After the school opened a week late because of the delay in the construction, we soon made up for lost time and attacked our studies vigorously. We knew definitely that school had begun when the various organizations resumed their activities with many seniors participating.

This year as we felt the weight of being on the top, we braved through our new responsibilities with both setbacks and triumphs. We had paper drives, suppers, dances, a play, the unforgettable trip to New York City, and finally graduation. Now with a hint of tears in every eye we finally realize the best years of our life are drawing to a close. How to thank our advisors will be hard indeed for they are the ones who have helped us over the hurdles and pushed us onward.
